

ASIS INTERNATIONAL HEALTHCARE SECURITY COUNCIL NEWSLETTER

2ND QUARTER 2017

St. Luke's of The Woodland's Hospital, The Woodlands, Texas, USA

Chairperson's Message

Elhadji Sarr, CPP

Director Campus Parking & Security
St. Luke's of The Woodland's Hospital

Members of the Healthcare Security Community:

As healthcare security professionals we are tasked with identifying and mitigating the challenges facing our industry by setting up security programs that meet or surpass industry standards. The ASIS healthcare Security Council members work very hard collaborating with one another to maintain a culture of continuous improvement to those standards ensuring that healthcare security professionals have the information and guidance they need to protect the world's hospitals.

One very important initiative we are engaged in now is the creation of a set of policies that constitute Best Practices. John White, CPP, CHPA is leading the project which will align model policies with the International Association for Healthcare Security and Safety (IAHSS) Guidelines. When this project is complete, every member of the council will have contributed to what will be arguably the largest single project the council has ever joined in.

Finally, the ASIS Annual Seminars and Exhibits are from September 25th to 28th, 2017 in Dallas, Texas. Register soon so you will have the best options for accommodations and travel. Take full advantage of the all the opportunities to network, learn, and socialize with security industry leaders from around the world. I look forward to seeing you there.

Hadji

Dan Yaross Presents to IAHS

Former council chairman Dan Yaross, MS, CPP, CHPA teamed with Jim Sawyer, Seattle Children's Hospital Security Director at the recent International Association of Healthcare Security and Safety Annual Conference and Exhibition in Vancouver, British Columbia, Canada. The topic was, "Visitor Screening Best Practices for Today's Healthcare Facility".

They have also co-authored an article on the same topic for the Journal of Healthcare Protection Management magazine, which is expected to be published in either the Summer or Fall edition.

Lisa Terry Presents to Chapter and Joins NFPA Project

Lisa Pryse Terry, CPP, CHPA, represented the Council at the May 26th meeting of the ASIS International Western South Carolina Chapter meeting at St. Francis Hospital in Greenville, SC. Lisa presented on just one area of her expertise, the investigation of drug diversions cases.

In addition to the main topic of Drug Diversion, Lisa also gave an overview of the ASIS Healthcare Security Council, it's past successes, and current initiatives. Lisa's presentation was well attended with multiple healthcare security professionals of various levels attending. The meeting was hosted at the St. Francis Downtown Greenville Hospital by Bruce Spaulding, the Director of Safety, Security, & Emergency Preparedness for the Bon Secours St. Francis Hospital system in Greenville, South Carolina.

Lisa has also been appointed to be the representative for healthcare security on the Draft Development Committee of the National Fire Protection Association's (NFPA) Standard for Preparedness and Response to Active Shooter and/or Hostile Events.

Myron Love Named to ISPA Board

Council Vice President Myron Love, CPP, PSP, has been named to the Board of Directors for the Illinois Security Professionals Association (ISPA). The association is comprised of private security professionals, law enforcement and public safety professionals who are committed to working together and promoting professional relationships within the industry. ISPA has a proud history of industry involvement and since 1961 has been the leading organization promoting cooperation between law enforcement and private security organizations. Throughout the years, ISPA has fostered collaborations with the FBI, US Secret Service, Dept. of Homeland Security, Illinois State Police, Chicago Police Department, Chicago Fire Department, and other first responders throughout Illinois.

We Hope to See You in Dallas!

The 63rd ASIS International Seminars and Exhibits is fast approaching. This year the event will be held in Dallas, Texas from September 24th to the 28th. The event is an unequalled opportunity for security practitioners to enjoy fellowship, network, see new products, learn, and share information.

Three members of the council are scheduled to present at the time this newsletter was published. Others may be added.

Dennis Blass, CPP, PSP, CFE, CISSP, CHSP, will participate in a panel discussion, Use Security and Resilience Management to Mitigate Organizational Risk. He will be joined by Lisa DuBrock, James Leflar, Marc Siegel. The discussion is scheduled for Tuesday, September 26, from 3:15 PM - 4:15 PM.

Michael D'Angelo, CPP, CHPA, will participate in a panel discussion, Becoming a Security Professional. He will be joined by Kenneth Ribler and Joseph Robinson. The discussion is scheduled for Wednesday, September 27, from 11:00 AM - 12:15 PM.

Bonnie Michelman, CPP, CHPA, will be presenting Change Management: Optimizing An Organization's Sanity and Success with David Gibbs. The presentation is scheduled on Monday, September 25 from 10:30 AM - 11:45 AM and is sponsored by the Healthcare Security Council.

Bonnie will then join a team of nine presenters for, Mock Trial: The Aftermath of a Domestic Bombing. The program is scheduled for Tuesday, September 26, from 2:00 PM - 4:15 PM.

Attendees of the ASIS International Seminars and Exhibits who are members of the International Association of Healthcare Security and Safety are invited to a reception on September 25. Details and Registration information.

The Most Overlooked Resource

By Terry L. Jones, CPP, PCI, PSP, CHPA

As those who are entrusted to protect the people, property, and operations of our organizations, healthcare security, safety, and emergency management professionals have at their disposal five elements; people, policies and procedures, training, technology, and awareness programs. Organizations resource those elements at varying levels then we are tasked with applying those elements to achieve deliverables identified by our organization. That all sounds pretty simple.

The deliverables vary by organization but I like to begin the conversation with five: Outstanding service, risk reduction, incident reduction, reliable incident response, and survey readiness. The magic is in filling the gap between the level at which the organization resources the program and the resources necessary to achieve the deliverables. We can sit in our offices and lament the fact we are under-resourced or we can do what leaders are supposed to do, overcome the barriers to success.

Step one is working to get maximum funding for your program. If you have not heard Bryan Warren, MBA, CHPA, CPOI, Director of Corporate Security for Carolinas Healthcare System, speak on the topic of making a case for more funding, you should. While you wait for an opportunity to hear Bryan live, Google him. You will find dozens of articles he has written on the topic. The reality is that absent a critical incident in your facility you are not likely to get the funding you would like to have. But speaking their language, delivering meaningful data, and making a business case will usually drive some improvement in funding.

The other thing I am going to suggest represents what I perceive to be the biggest deficiency I observe when I do assessments for my clients. I am amazed how often security directors ignore the existence of the body of knowledge available to practitioners in our field. The ASIS International Healthcare Security Council, the International Association of Healthcare Security and Safety, and a large number of industry leaders have published volumes of information. There are books, papers, articles, webinars and tools virtually free for the asking that many security directors simply do not take the time to access.

A leader who ignores this vast work-product is limiting their organization's programs to the depth of his or her own knowledge, experience and creativity. Access it! It is inexpensive and a very effective way to take your program to the next level. It is a force multiplier that you do not have to ask the C-suite to resource.

Submission Guidelines

Council members are encouraged to submit complete articles. Subject matter should be related to healthcare safety, security, or emergency management or the activities of members of the council. Maximum size of articles is about 500 words.
